THE NEW DRY LAW

The following is a synopsis of the Pinchot enforcement law:

Repeals the Brooks high license act, with the Woner act amendments, and this abolishes all license for the sale of beverage with the half of 1 per cent of alcoholic content permitted under the Volstead act.

Allows the sale of such drinks without restrictions, and any change in authorized alcoholic content that shall be made by Congress, will automatically become effective in Pennsylvania.

It permits search without warrant, by any officer, of any automobile, truck or other vehicle or airplane, or of any container carried by a pedestrian which he may suspect is being used to carry intoxicating liquor.

The search and seizure clause authorize a warrant for the entrance of any house at any time upon information alleging reasonable ground for belief that liquor is being sold on the premises, and any liquor found may be seized, the owner being obliged to prove that the same was acquired prior to the enactment of the bill. The Volstead act restrictions, as to the issuance of such warrants, are provided.

Aldermen, magistrates and justices of the peace are authorized to issue warrants:

Places other than homes may be searched under search warrants which allege reasonable grounds for belief that liquor is other unlawfully possessed, sold, manufactured or stored therein.

Any building or place where liquor is being made or sold unlawfully may be closed as a public nuisance for one year.

Violation of the law is punishable by fine of from $100 to $5,000, or imprisonment for terms up to three years, in addition to confication of liquor and property, including automobiles or other vehicles used in unlawfully transportation.

Provides that possession of intoxicating liquor shall be prima facie evidence that it was acquired, possessed and used unlawfully, and burden of proof that it was not, rest upon the accused.—Titusville Herald.

WHERE LIFE'S WORTH LIVING

If you are dissatisfied with things as they are, worried with the daily routine, disgruntled with a state of affairs that makes it necessary for you day after day to get up and go to work so that the two ends may meet, if you would like nothing better than an endless period when you could loaf—why you're a prospect for Fernando Po.

Fernando Po is an island off the west coast of Africa, ignorant of the world and its ways and in turn ignored by the world. It belongs to Spain. It is a tropical island. It has waving palms, dusky and languid beauties, warm days and beautiful nights. Here care fades troubles disappear and Nirvana takes possession of the soul.

But its greatest attraction we have still to mention. On Fernando Po, men are absolved from work. They spend their time drinking, smoking, hunting, fishing or doing anything else they please. They needn't work provided only they take the precaution to get married.

A Spanish explorer, who has just returned from the island, bears testimony to all these things. He writes in El Sol of Madrid.

The women of Fernando Po work in the houses and on the field. They keep the shabby cottages clean, cook all the meals, take care of the husband fill his tobacco pipe and put it into his mouth, offer him wine and fruit and hold his plate while he is eating. Women plant and harvest. Women fell the tres and transport wood. Women carry water into the huts.

There are of course some defects to life on Fernando Po. An occasional epedemic, seasons of great heat and terriffic storms occur there. But what are these things compared to the fact that the male everywhere else on the globe the provider, is here at ease in Zion living the life of a loafing Riley all his days.—Buffalo News.

Her brother, John, wrapped an overcoat about her, but she was so terribly burned she died at about six o'clock without regaining consciousness.

ARBOR DAY.

A paper read by Mrs. I. S. Crouse at Pomona Grange held at Coryville on April 4.

The institution of Labor Day in America is the revival of ancient custom. The tribe of Mexican Indians plant trees certain days of the year, naming them after their children. And as early as the fifth century the Swiss people observed an Arbor Day, when they planted groves of oak saplings.

The first Arbor Day in America was observed on April 10th 1872, in Nebraska, and was originated by J. Sterling Morton. Mr. Morton persuaded the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture to offer a prize of one hundred dollars to the agricultural society which should plant properly the largest number of trees. The people responded so generously that more than a milion trees were planted in that State on the first Arbor Day. I wonder if we would have as good results in our own state, should the department of Agriculture offer such a prize to the grange setting out the largest number of trees.

Gradually the other states adopted the custom. In 1888 New York fell into line, observing the first Friday in May as Arbor Day, choosing the white elm as the State tree and the rose as the state flower, and planting these on the holiday.

Arbor day has been associated generally with the public schools. Pupils may be taught, by observance of the day, to love and protect trees, and to know their many uses. They may be reminded that our knowledge of trees begins at an early age usually with a close and thorough knowledge of the birch.

The service of trees to us, begins with the cradle and ends with the coffin. Our houses and furniture, parts of agricultural implements, ships, railroad cars and ties are largely the products of trees.

In many cities, trees are distributed to the school children to be planted, either in the school yards or at their homes. The kinds of trees used are maple, elm, birch.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

A. CONAN DOYLE BELIEVES IN CURSE OF ANCIENT KINGS.

New York, April 5.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, celebrated author and spiritualist, declared today he believed the mysterion death of Lord Carnarvon is due to the curse inposed by ancient Pharoahs upon anyone who disturbed their tombs. Mr. Doyle was much interested in the strange fate has overtaken the discoverer of King Tutankamen's tomb. "I feel it is dangerous to dig up corpses of dead monarchs." Doyle said. "It is neither decent or safe to take from their resting place the bodies of old kings. Egyptians knew much more about the occult than we do today."

DIAMONDS LOST IN FIRE

Olean April 9—A chamois bag containing a number of valuable diamonds of Mrs. W. A. Young, who was cremated in the fire that destroyed her home in Eldred, P. just Southeast of Olean, one week ago, was on the woman's person at the time of the fire, it is believed. The ashes responsible for a general hunt by Eldred residents in the ruins for a time, but the place has been roped off and wards stand there It is not likely at all it will be found on account of big heap of ashes and debris, according to opinion.

SCARLET FEVER CASE PROLONGS VACATION

Bradford, Pa., April 9.—A Bradford High School girl contracted scarlet fever on the seniors' Washington trip and all students who have had it would take some note, made the trip will be under observation for one week. The party returned to Bradford Saturday night.

Alma Wixon of Cyclone, member of the class who made the trip, was taken ill Saturday night while staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Goodrich, 11 Homestead avenue where she was to have spent the night before going home to Cyclone. Dr. T. O. Glenn was called and he diagnozed the case as scarlet fever.

GRANGE NEWS

A very good attendance at Grange last Saturday night, which, of course meant a good time as usual.

There were four applications for membership presented, and judging from the number of application blanks that were taken by different members, for projective candidates, there will be quite a number more applicants next Saturday night. Let them come, the more the merrier.

We will soon have to enlarge the Hall to accommodate the increase in attendance. Either was talking about it last Saturday night and we are ready to help him any time he wants to start it. Something else we are going to do this spring. If you want to know what, come to Grange and find out or else wait until it becomes visible to the public.

We are not going to have the Courthouse moved done to Farmers Valley, at least not yet, although there is some talk of it.

Oh yes, the Valley Grange is just about ready to be buried, but a resurrection trip and all students who have had it would like some hole. And then we are lively enough to dig out. Just watch our Smoke. We are sitting on all six no backfiring.

HIGH SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

Students of educational affairs tell us that the growth of high school enrollment throughout the country has been the outstanding feature of school progress during the past ten years. Every where students are crowding to the high schools for it is realized that high school preparation is a basis for higher educational achievements as well as a preparation for the duties and enjoyments of practical life, for those who are unable to supplement a high school education by a normal or college course.

McKean county is fortunate in the character and location of its high schools. There are few sections of the county that are not within easy access to high school opportunities. There are few, if any counties of the State with a population of 50,000 that has so many big schools of the first class, first class not only in name but also in the character of the work accomplished.

The following table, made from 1922-grade tables of November, gives the High School enrollment in the county:—

Hamlin Township	34
Norwich Township	23
Hamilton Township	62
Eldred Boro	96
Mt. Jewett Boro	102
Smethport Boro	135
Port Alegany Boro	198
Township pupils in Bradford City High School	177
Kane Boro	438
Enrolled elsewhere	14
Total enrollment	1281

Total number of pupils of school age in the county outside the city of Bradford is given in reports of secretaries as 6959.

Therefore the enrollment of high school pupils is 18.5 per cent of the total school population of the county. The following data shows this enrollment to be high. It is still more commendable when it is remembered that the enrollment of township pupils is a very considerable figure in total enrollment for the county.

According to the latest statistics available, the high school enrollment in Pennsylvania is 8.2 per cent of the number of pupils of school age; for the United States it is 8.8 %; for Montana, the leading state we are informed in educational matters, it is 9.5 % while for McKean county, districts outside Bradford, it is 18.5 %.

SAVE 13½% on coal

TESTS have shown that over-coating an old frame house with Portland Cement stucco effects a saving of 13½% on coal. Add to this the saving on painting expense and the continual little repairs that permanence eliminates.

Many old homes cannot be improved on for general appearance, general comfort. But permanence and upkeep saving can be added at small cost. Ask your building material dealer how.

DEDICATION OF SCHOOL BUILDING AT DERRICK CITY

Pupils and teachers, patrons of the school and friends of education gathered at the new school building in Derrick City for dedicatory exercises on the evening of February 24, 1923, Dr. Lee L. Driver, State Director of the Bureau of Rural Schools, was the chief speaker of the evening and the guest of honor.

A reception was held at 7:00 o'clock, the members of the Foster school board showing the guests through the building. The program of the evening began at 8:00 o'clock being interspersed by fine orchestral selections rendered by the high school orchestra of Bradford.

The new school building occupies the site of the former building which burned in the spring of 1922. School has been held during the intervening time in three rooms belonging to judges of Derrick. While some supplies of all kinds were destroyed with the building, the school was organized and running within three days after the building was destroyed. This was made possible by the energy of the town's superintendent, Professor J. D. Hinerman and the courtesy of the superintendent of Bradford, Mr. D. F. Butterworth, who furnished desks, apparatus, etc., to the extent necessary.

The school directors of Foster are to be congratulated upon the sensible manner in which they have handled the school problem of Derrick. Failing to be stampeded into a drop they have erected a building and furnished school opportunities as far as elementary schools are concerned, that are not surpassed in this section of the state. Building prices are mighty rising and it is doubtful if the Derrick school building could be duplicated short of $50,000, exclusive of building lots.

The site of the building is well chosen as it occupies a fine location near the Bradford city limits, and is on the Bradford trolley line which also crosses the rear of the school lot thus affording transportation facilities for pupils who live a distance from school.

The building is a red brick one story structure with a well lighted basement extending under the whole building. A most pleasing and perhaps unique feature of the main floor is a fine auditorium well equipped with piano, stage and chairs. It is so arranged that these rooms can be used as extra class rooms if necessary. The auditorium is separated from two class rooms on the right and two on the left by large halls which lead to the basement and to well arranged front and rear entrances.

The four class rooms are equipped with every needed school room facility; single adjustable desks, stained a rich mahogany, cloak rooms separated from the class rooms by rolling partitions, dome electric lights, both hot air and steam heating facilities and light effect from massed windows.

The basement contains heating apparatus, a drilled well furnishes an abundant water supply which is automatically controlled by an electric device which maintains a constant pressure of 40 pounds, a large and well equipped play room and gymnasium, as well as a room that will be fitted for kitchen and dining room.

Already a parent teacher organization has been effected, a weekly forum considers current events. It is the purpose of the citizens of Derrick to make the school building a center of community activities. All in all, Derrick City has one of the finest school equipments in northwestern Pennsylvania and it would seem that school patrons are planning to make the widest and best possible use of these facilities.

TRAINED FOR EMERGENCIES; PROVES HERSELF HEROINE

The telephone girl—how few of us who use the phone many times per day realize that the owner of the gentle voice at "Central" may prove herself a heroine any day. She is there, meeting every call upon her and doing it without any bragging or bluster.

Take the case of the girl in Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania. She saw a signal at her switchboard, plugged in to answer the call and heard moans over the phone. She acted,—a doctor was called, sent to the place and probably saved the life of the woman who had fallen just as she started to phone. Yet the young woman, herself a bride of but two weeks, regarded it as part of her work. She was trained to think in emergency—and was ready when the emergency came. It is this training that makes heroes or heroines in everyday life.—Waukegan (Ill.) Daily News.

After a man finds out he can make a speech he begins to talk on the slightest provocation.

STATE SCHOOL FLOWER ELECTION.

All students in the public schools of Pennsylvania will be asked to vote on a flower to be known as the Pennsylvania School Flower at the time of observing the Spring Arbor Day. They will be asked to select a wild flower which grows abundantly in this State.

Teachers are requested to bring this matter before your pupils and forward results of the vote along with the term reports and attendance cards. Announcement of the results of the vote will be made through the newspapers and in the School Journal.

ARBOR AND BIRD DAY.

DAIRY DEPARTMENT

IMPORTANT POINTS IN COWS

Missouri Expert Tells Just What to Look for in Buying High Producing Cattle.

"The man does not live who can pick the good cows from the poor ones without ever making a mistake," says W. W. Swett, of the Missouri College of Agriculture. "Even the best judges sometimes make a mistake. But there are certain points about the dairy cow that are almost always associated with high production."

The udder should be deep, wide and long with good attachments. It should be evenly developed, level on the floor and equipped with teats of good and uniform size, symmetrically placed. It should also be soft and pliable, indicating that it consists of secreting cells rather than flesh.

A good set of milk veins indicates that the udder is well supplied with blood. Long, crooked milk veins entering large wells or openings through the body wall are usually associated with high production.

A cow cannot be a maximum and continuous producer unless she has a strong constitution. Vitality and strength of constitution are indicated by broad, open nostril, and a chest which is deep and broad.

Feed capacity is essential, in order to produce heavily a cow must consume large quantities of feed and water. A barrel which is long, broad and deep indicates a large capacity and good production. A large cow nearly always has the advantage in production, provided she is not deficient in other points.

Alertness in temperament is an asset, and a sluggish cow is seldom a high producer. Dairy temperament includes those characteristics which indicate that the cow's feed is used for the production of milk rather than for body fat. Angularity, prominent joints, lack of looseness and flesh, and the presence of the triple wedges are good indications.

Quality refers to the handling or pliability of the hide. The refinement of bone and the refinement of the animal, which cannot be described but which have to be seen to be appreciated.

HERDS TESTED DURING JUNE

Of a Total of 250,886 Examined 8,810 Reacted, Disclosing 3½ Per Cent Tuberculous Cattle.

Cattle officially tested during June, 1922, for tuberculosis numbered 250,886, according to a summary issued by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture. This figure exceeds the normal amount of tuberculin testing by several thousand. Of all the cattle tested, 8,810 reacted, thus disclosing about 3½ per cent of tuberculous cattle.

The removal of such animals from herds otherwise healthy is gradually bringing about better health among farm live stock, safer milk supplies, and many economic benefits. The popularity of tuberculosis eradication is evidenced by the length of the list of herds waiting to be tested. At the end of June there were applications on file for the testing of 35,230 herds, containing more than half a million cattle.

SKIM CREAM MORE CLOSELY

Keeps Better During Hot Weather and Makes Better Butter—Keep Skim Milk on Farm.

If it's to keep best during the warm weather and to make the highest quality butter, cream needs to be skimmed closely. Better butter is made from heavier cream as the fine, smallish grains that are precipitated in churning are more solid than the butter resulting from thin cream. Also it will pay to ship the heavier cream, as there is no use to pay shipping charges on skim milk. It will make better feed on the farm.

Tester Is Big Aid.

Nothing compares to a good cow-tester in helping get the herd in the way of bringing profits.

Get Rid of Poor Cows.

Dairymen are now realizing more keenly than ever the necessity of getting rid of the cows that are scarcely paying their board. These cows place too heavy a tax upon the herd to make the dairying go as it should.

Cows to Keep Up Fertility.

Ten cows in milk would be about the logical number to keep up the fertility on a 100-acre farm where commercial fertilizers are used, and where there are three dry cows, some young stock, and some horses.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE consists of an Ointment which Quickly Relieves by local application, and the Internal Medicine, a Tonic, which assists in improving the General Health.

ARBOR DAY.

oak, and catalpa. Surely this is a plan which the Grange should encourage in every possible way.

School children should be taught how to care for the young trees intelligently. Interest will be promoted by naming the trees planted on Arbor Day, for distinguished persons. Watching to see how Longfellow is growing, or George Washington wants water, or general Grant beginning to sprout, the child will find that a tree may be as interesting as a pet animal.

Of later years, Arbor Day has come to have a new significence with the movement for National conservation of trees. It has been suggested that "Conservation Day" would be a more fitting name for the holiday than "Arbor Day," which has always been rather misleading because the word "arbor" meant a tree to the Romans, means a bower to Americans.

The importance of Arbor Day is plainly shown in the Arbor Day letter written by Theodore Roosevelt, when President, to the school children of the United States.

Arbor Day (which means simply "Tree Day") is now observed in every State in the Union, and mainly in the schools. At various times, from January to December, but chiefly in this month of April, you give a day or part of a day to special exercises and perhaps to actual tree planting, in recognition of the importance of trees to us as a Nation and of what they yield in adornment, comfort and useful products to the communities in which you live.

It is well that you should celebrate your Arbor Day thoughtfully, for within your lifetime the Nation's need of trees will become serious. We of an older generation can get along with what wehave, though with growing hardships, but in your full manhood and womanhood you will want what nature once so beautifully supplied, and man so thoughtlessly destroyed and because of that want you will reproach us, not for what we have used, but for what we have wasted.

For the nation, as for the man or woman or boy or girl, the road to success is the right use of what we have, and the improvement of present opportunities. If you neglect to prepare yourselves now for the duties and responsibilities which will fall upon you later, if you do not learn the things which you will need to know when your school days are over, you will suffer the consequences. So any nation which in its youth lives only for the day, reaps without sowing, and consumes without husbanding, must expect the plenty of the prodigal, whose labor could without difficulty find him the bare means of life.

A people without children would face a hopeless future, a community without trees is almost as hopeless: forests which are so used that they cannot renew themselves will soon vanish, and with them all their benefits. A true forest is not merely a storehouse full of wood, but as it were, a factory of wood, and a the same time a reservoir of water When you help to preserve our forests or plant new ones you are acting the part of good citizens. The value of forestry deserves, therefore, to be taught in the schools, which aim to make good citizens of you. If your Arbor Day exercises help you to realize what benefits each one of you receive from the forest, and how by you assistance these benefits may continue, they will serve a god end.

CANNOT MASTER SHORTHAND

Men of Acknowledged Ability Have Failed in Efforts to Learn Even Simple Systems.

Lord Beaverbrook, speaking at the annual prize-giving of Pitman's school at the Royal Albert hall, says the London Morning Post, said that it was a curious fact that some men of great ability had failed in the attempt to learn shorthand.

He mentioned that Lord Carson was one example, and the present prime minister another. It was not a question of cleverness, or even of memory. Bonar Law possessed an extraordinary memory. When he first became leader of the conservative party, it was his habit on the occasion of any great set debate in the house of commons to dictate to his secretary the speech that he intended to make. He would read it through and then go down to the house and repeat it with scarcely the alteration of a word. He would quote long mathematical calculations entirely from memory, yet he confessed to having striven very hard to learn shorthand, and with no success.

T. M. Healy, now the governor general of the Irish Free State, used to make use of shorthand in the debates.—New York Tribune.

Colorado Important State.

Colorado ranks seventh in size among the 48 states. It has a land area of 66,310,120 acres, or 103,656 square miles. It is more than twelve times the size of Massachusetts, approximately twice as large as Iowa and about three-quarters as large as New York, Ohio, Connecticut and New Hampshire combined. The extreme length of the state is 387 miles east and west, or 37 miles more than from New York to Portland, Me. Its width is about 276 miles, or the distance from Chicago to St. Louis. These are counties larger than several of the important states.

The Telephone In Asia.

Asia has 493,615 telephones, which allows but a tenth of a telephone for every one hundred people. The increase since 1914 is 61.3 per cent. It has about 1,200,000 miles of telephone wire or two-tenths of a mile for each one hundred people.

Twenty-five Million Dollars' worth of New Equipment will be added to the Bell System in Pennsylvania this year

HALF a million miles of new wire, thirty-five new building operations, seventy thousand new telephones, ten million dollars' worth of central office equipment—such is our program for 1923.

And all this in addition to the tremendous amounts of new plant added in the last three years, which was more than in any six previous years in Pennsylvania's telephone history.

There is an enormous demand for telephone service. Twenty-five million dollars in one year is our effort to meet this demand.
